						Misconduct			CP son has a QLD rail yearly pass issued to him in his father's name (which differs from child's surname) dut to CP working for QLD rail. POI disputed the fact this pass was issued to the child and despite pleas to contact his father by telephone, POI seized the pass and advised the child to purchase a rail ticket or POI would issue a $150 fine. CP alleges that the POI retained this pass and refused to contact complainant as he said he was too busy to do so. CP states POI had no right to take the pass and will attempt to obtain it back when the POI returns to work on [redacted]. Upon attending [redacted] Station at 4pm on [redacted] CP was advised that no officer of that description worked at the [redacted] station and that the CP should enquire at Ipswich station. As CP and his son were leaving [redacted] station, the CP's son saw through a window the POI who had seized the pass. Returning to the entry the POI opened the door and advised the pass had been sent to QLD rail and then slammed the door in the complainant's face.	zzManagerial Action Strategies Used: Managerial guidance/Chastisement
